Dear Devotees of Dabrowski's Theory:

The Institute for the Study of Advanced Development (ISAD) is gathering together a group of seasoned students of Dabrowski's Theory for a retreat in Keystone, Colorado, on June 9 - 12, 1994. The Symposium will focus on Dabrowski's conception of levels of development, as well as discussions of future directions and current theoretical and research issues. There will be few formal presentations, and a great deal of opportunity for discussion. This is an advanced seminar, by invitation only, to those who have already attended an introductory workshop on Dabrowski's Theory and have read several related articles, or have conducted their own independent study of the theory. We have invited some of the individuals who have studied and promoted the theory for decades to dialogue with us. Among those invited are Frank Falk, William Hague, Sharon Lind, Nancy Miller, Laurence Nixon, Michael Piechowski, and Linda Silverman. There is only space for 40 of us; due to the limited space, participation will be on a first come, first served basis.

We would be delighted if you would join us in this dialogue. Please see the attached information sheets for specifics as to travel arrangements, room reservations, and costs. Plan to fly into Denver International Airport in order to meet the shuttle schedule to Keystone Resort Wednesday evening. (The last shuttle leaves at 9:00 PM). Room reservations are until 11:00 AM on Sunday morning and Keystone is about 2 hours from the airport. The Rocky Mountains are quite beautiful, but the weather is changeable, so bring warm clothing.

We would appreciate it if you would send in the enclosed form as soon as possible, and prior to April 1, 1994, so that we can reserve a place for you. Send your registration together with your $50 symposium fee which pays materials and incidental expenses incurred by ISAD (a non-profit organization). If you have any questions, please contact Sharon Lind at (206) 630-5372. We look forward to seeing you.

Sincerely

Linda Kreger Silverman, Ph.D.
 Director
